

Designated Brownfield Areas

Florida's brownfield areas are designated by resolution of a local government, and are defined as contiguous areas of one or more brownfield sites, some of which may not be contaminated. Such areas may include all or portions of community redevelopment areas, enterprise zones, empowerment zones, Environmental Protection Agency-designated brownfield pilot projects, and other designated areas or communities experiencing economic distress.

A brownfield site means real property, the expansion, redevelopment, or reuse of which may be complicated by actual or perceived environmental contamination.

Florida's brownfield program offers businesses and developers a very generous and flexible set of regulatory and financial incentives to clean up and redevelop a brownfield site. Just a few of the advantages of brownfield sites include:

- $2,500 job bonus refund for each new job created by an eligible business
- Highly attractive business locations with existing infrastructure
- Proximity to highly skilled labor and downtown business districts
- Increased state loan guarantees to improve lending opportunities
- Use of federal, state and local resources to assist in the redevelopment of brownfields
- Expedited permitting

For the community, brownfield redevelopment projects create new jobs and tax revenues, improve the environment, revitalize neighborhoods, increase property values, eliminate environmental inequities, and enhance the overall quality of life.
